

The FCC should not have the right to mandate content of any form.
As long as the consumer has a choice and the content is not being mandated on that person then the right of content should be in the hands of the consumer. We no longer have 3 channels and no choices. . .!